Executive Summary

In September of 2009, the City of Hawkinsville requested that the Middle Georgia Regional Commission conduct a housing assessment to assist with the City's ongoing housing revitalization efforts. The boundary of the assessment area was selected to correspond with the City's Revitalization Area Strategy (RAS) boundary. The RAS is a state designation which must be located within Census Block Groups with poverty rates greater than 20 percent and a designated Urban Redevelopment Area. This boundary also roughly corresponds to the jurisdictional boundary of the Urban Redevelopment Agency for the City of Hawkinsville (HURA), which is charged by the City with addressing the housing needs of the community.

The Hawkinsville Housing Assessment included an inventory of all housing structures in the defined area and a determination of their condition as Standard, Substandard, and Dilapidated. In addition to a determination of the condition of the structure, a color photograph was taken of each structure, and the following information was recorded to assist with the identification of the property.

- Physical Address
- Structure Type (i.e. Site-Built or Mobile Home)
- Single-Family or Multi-Family Unit
- Occupied or Vacant

Local data collection took place between 11/1/2009 and 11/18/2009 with additional observations taking place on 12/22/09 and 1/5/2010. Upon completion of field work data collection, the Pulaski County Tax Assessor's online database was utilized to collect the parcel identification number, verify the information collected through observation, and identify any homestead exemptions claimed on the property.

Within the study area, 727 housing structures were identified and, of this number, 56 (7.7%) were mobile homes and the remaining 671 (92.3%) were site built. Forty-three structures (5.9%) were identified as multi-family units, while 684 (94.1%) were single-family homes. Three-hundred and eight structures (42.4%) were claiming some class of homestead exemption, while the remainder claimed none. Based on observation using the standardized methodology described in this report, 91 structures (12.5%) were classified as Dilapidated, 134 (18.4%) were classified as Substandard, and 502 (69.1%) were classified as Standard.

Each housing structure in the study was mapped using Geographic Information Systems (GIS) software and examined in relation to demographic information from the 2000 Census. Based on this analysis, the Middle Georgia Regional Commission recommends that Second Street be the primary focus of the City's code enforcement efforts and that McDuffie Street be the initial target area for the City's grant-funded rehabilitation initiative.

Purpose

The purpose of this report is to assist the City of Hawkinsville with the development of a strategy to address the problem of substandard and dilapidated housing within the community. To this end, the extent of housing conditions is quantified and a range of policy and program options is presented. Although it will be necessary to further investigate recommended target areas to determine if individual homeowners are willing to participate in available assistance programs, the information presented in this report will be invaluable as the City of Hawkinsville and HURA continues their efforts to rehabilitate and revitalize neighborhoods plagued by a deteriorating housing stock.

Methodology

The Middle Georgia Regional Commission (MGRC) conducted a comprehensive assessment of all private housing structures within the City of Hawkinsville's identified Revitalization Area Strategy boundary. This assessment was completed via a windshield survey whereby MGRC staff observed each structure from a street view and made a determination regarding the condition, occupancy, type of structure, whether the structure was a single- or multi-family unit. Note: The City of Hawkinsville's Building Inspector assisted MGRC staff during the windshield survey to ensure consistency of the determinations recorded. The condition of each structure was categorized as Standard, Substandard, and Dilapidated using set criteria as described below:

Standard:

A standard unit is one that, upon initial inspection from the exterior, appears to be in good structural condition. The unit may need new paint, gutters replaced, or other minor/cosmetic repairs but is in no significant state of disrepair. The home will exhibit no more than one minor defect and no major defects.

Substandard:

Upon initial exterior inspection, a substandard unit appears to be in a state of significant disrepair. The unit needs work in order to halt further deterioration. It appears to be structurally sound, but exhibits minor defects. Substandard homes will exhibit between two or three minor defects and no major defects.

Dilapidated:

Dilapidated homes appear in a serious state of disrepair. The home needs extensive repair, reconstruction, or removal in order to protect the health and safety of inhabitants or the general public. The building exhibits little or no structural integrity. Dilapidated buildings will have four or more minor defects and/or one or more major defects.

Minor Defects:

- slightly swayed roof
- damaged and/or missing roof tiles
- uneven and/or slightly cracked foundation
- uneven windows and/or doors
- one or two broken windowpanes
- bare and/or unfinished wood
- missing and/or damaged exterior siding

- exposed insulation
- minor dry rot
- uneven steps and/or missing handrails
- porch and/or entrance in a state of disrepair
- overgrown and/or “trashed” lot

Major Defects:

- sagging roof
- a significant area of damaged and/or missing roof tiles
- seriously uneven and/or seriously cracked foundation
- broken and/or missing windows or doors
- severely damaged and/or missing exterior siding
- major dry rot
- steps, porch, or entrance is falling in

Upon completion of field work data collection, MGRC staff, tabulated all data collected and produced a series of maps showing the location, condition, vacancy, type, etc. of each unit within the study area. Presentation-grade maps were produced using ArcView v.3.3 software and provided to the City as a part of this report and separately in Adobe Acrobat (*.pdf) format.

Disclaimer: Structural determinations included in this report are based solely on external observation from public right-of-way. The presence or non-presence of the conditions listed above is only an indicator of the structural integrity—the actual condition may be better or worse than reported.

Background

Data collected during the Housing Assessment was supplemented by housing and demographic information collected from the U.S. Census Bureau’s 2000 Census. It should be noted that, although the Census information summarized below is now ten years old, it remains the most accurate and comprehensive information available for the City of Hawkinsville. Despite its age, Census 2000 information remains useful in identifying broad patterns in the demographics and housing characteristics within the study area. For this study, Census information was collected for the three Census Block Groups that most closely correspond to the assessment area (Block Group Numbers 132359502002, 132359502003, and 132359502004 (hereafter referred to as Block Groups 2, 3, and 4). Note: Block Groups 2 and 3 are included in their entirety in the study area while the majority of Block Group 4 is included (as shown on Map B-1, Appendix B).

Tables 1 and 2 (see page 4) include selected demographics and housing characteristics from the 2000 Census for the study area and the City of Hawkinsville as a whole. According to the 2000 Census, the city had a population of 3,280, and 2,105 (or 64.17%) of these people were located in the three block groups that include the study area. Block Groups 2, 3, and 4 also contain the highest concentrations of minorities and persons below poverty according to the Census. In addition, Census Block Groups 2, 3, and 4 include two-thirds of all housing units in the City, approximately 80 percent of all identified vacant units and 70 percent of all units reported as being built prior to 1970.

Of particular importance to the findings of this report is the compilation of household income data from the 2000 Census. Because the average household size in the study area block groups is 2.43, the household income information is compared to the income limits defined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for a family size of three (see Table 3). The HUD income threshold for this family size most closely corresponds to the income limit of $35,000 as reported under "Household Income in 1999" in the Census data. By using this approximation, one can conclude that over 70 percent of the households in the target area make less than 35,000 and will likely qualify for HUD-based assistance programs like the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) or Community HOME Investment Program (CHIP).

Based on the underlying characteristics of the City of Hawkinsville and the subject block groups, the Housing Assessment study area appears to be, statistically, a very desirable area for a community revitalization initiative. Most funding assistance programs for housing rehabilitation and infrastructure are based on the severity of need and income qualifications of those that are likely to benefit. The housing statistics show a potentially high severity of need, and the income statistics show a high probability that the households in this area will qualify for assistance.

Summary of Findings

The information collected through fieldwork on the Hawkinsville Housing Assessment was used to create a series of tables and maps that reflect the condition of housing in the study area. The information contained in these tables and maps was used to assess the suitability of parts of the study area for use as target areas toward which a variety of revitalization strategies and techniques should be directed. Tables 5 and 6 below summarize the data collected.

Table 5. Study Area Conditions

Housing Condition & Type	Units

Dilapidated Site Built	86
Substandard Mobile Home	6
Substandard Site Built	128
Standard Mobile Home	45
Standard Site Built	457
Total	727

A total of 727 private housing structures were identified in the study area. Of these structures, 91 were identified as dilapidated (red), 134 were identified as Substandard (yellow), and 502 were identified as Standard (green). The color coding in the tables corresponds to Maps B-2 and B-3 included in Appendix B. On these maps, the 671 site-built structures are identified by a circle (o), and the 56 mobile homes are identified by a triangle (Δ). Each structure symbol is numbered to correspond with a map reference page included in Appendix C. These reference pages include a photograph of the structure and all the information that was collected during the Assessment.

Homestead exemption codes give an indicator of whether or not homes in the project area are owner-occupied. These codes are indicated on tax records as compiled by Pulaski County. It should be noted that this code is not a perfect indicator of an owner-occupied structure because some people may be eligible but have not applied for the exemption.

However, without conducting a door-to-door survey of the area (as is the case with the decennial census), this exemption code is the most accurate, readily-available indicator.

Estimating the number of owner-occupied structures in a target area is essential to assessing the probability of an area's qualification for rehabilitation assistance, which is often contingent on homeownership. Figure 1 gives brief descriptions of the homestead exemption codes that were found

S0	No Homestead Exemption
S1	The home of each resident of Georgia that is actually occupied and used as the primary residence by the owner may be granted a $2,000 exemption from state, county, and school taxes except for school taxes levied by municipalities and except to pay interest on and to retire bonded indebtedness. (O.C.G.A. § 48-5-44)
S3	Individuals 62 years of age or over that are residents of each independent school district and of each county school district may claim an additional exemption from all ad valorem taxes for educational purposes and to retire school bond indebtedness if the income of that person and his spouse does not exceed $10,000 for the prior year. (O.C.G.A. § 48-5-52)
S4	Individuals 65 years of age or over may claim a $4,000 exemption from all state and county ad valorem taxes if the income of that person and his spouse does not exceed $10,000 for the prior year. (O.C.G.A. § 48-5-47)
S5	Any qualifying disabled veteran may be granted an exemption of $50,000 from paying property taxes for state, county, municipal, and school purposes. This exemption is extended to the unmarried surviving spouse or minor children as long as they continue to occupy the home as a residence. (O.C.G.A. § 48-5-48)
SC	Individuals 65 years of age or over may claim an exemption from all state ad valorem taxes on their home and up to ten acres of land surrounding the home. (O.C.G.A. § 48-5-48.3) in the study area. The most common homestead exemptions claimed in the study area are S1 (Standard Exemption) and S4 (Senior Exemption/Low Income). Of the 727 housing structures in the study area, 419 (57.63%) claimed no homestead exemption and 308 (42.37%) claimed some form of exemption. This owner-occupied rate is slightly lower than what was recorded for the Census Block Groups that contain the study area (see Table 2.)

In order to most effectively direct available housing resources, it is important to understand where the community's nonstandard housing is located. Table 7 shows the volume of nonstandard housing in the study area by street. These numbers include both vacant and occupied structures as well as single-family and multi-family structures. Those streets with the highest numbers of nonstandard structures are N. Dooly Street, McDuffie Street, and MLK Boulevard (Figure 2 below illustrates the map view of MLK Boulevard). Appendix A includes a street-based listing of all housing structures in the study area by condition, as well as a representation of the concentration of non-standard housing—calculated as a percent of all housing on each street.

Strategies and Recommendations

There are numerous strategies for addressing nonstandard housing in the community ranging from direct grant-funded assistance to punishment for noncompliance with City codes. While the characteristics of individual target areas may dictate which strategy is applied, the cooperation of the property owners is essential for any strategy to be effective.

One of the most effective ways for a local government to address the problem of nonstandard housing is to compel property owners through the enforcement of state minimum standard codes as defined in O.C.G.A. §8-2-20. These codes are generally in place to ensure that buildings are constructed in a manner that protects the safety of those inside or those who may come in contact with the structure. Code Enforcement may be used to prevent a structure from becoming unsafe by compelling a property owner to fix structural problems before they cause deterioration that results in significant safety hazards. After a structure has deteriorated to the point where it is a safety hazard, the local government may compel the owner to improve the condition as soon as possible or face fines and possibly imprisonment. If the property owner refuses to take corrective action, the local government may remove the unsafe structure and place a lien on the property for the removal costs and associated expenses.

It is recommended that the community's building codes and property standards be strictly enforced on all nonstandard (i.e. substandard and dilapidated) structures in the community (whether residential or otherwise) to achieve the most effective standardization of conditions. However, given the City of Hawkinsville's limited enforcement resources, it is, therefore, recommended that the City prioritize its enforcement based on those areas with the highest volume of vacant, dilapidated structures. This is recommended, in part, because the vacant, dilapidated structures represent the most urgent threats to public health and safety and are often havens for delinquency, drug-use, and other criminal activity; and because it will not result in displacement of residents. Table 8 lists all the streets in the study area with vacant, dilapidated structures and the number that were observed; and based on this data, it is recommended that Second Street, Houston Street, and MLK Boulevard be the top priorities for code enforcement action within the study area. Subsequent code enforcement priorities should be based on the next highest incidences of vacant dilapidated housing found.

For all other situations that involve occupied housing units that fall into either the dilapidated or substandard classifications, there are numerous public and private assistance programs that are currently or potentially available in the City of Hawkinsville. The following is a list of the most commonly used sources of assistance and a description of each program:

- Middle Georgia Community Action Agency – Provides grants and loans to qualifying low-to-moderate income households to provide weatherization and energy-efficiency improvements.
- United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Office of Rural Development – Provides low-interest and guaranteed loans to qualifying low-to-moderate income borrowers to become homeowners in a rural community. USDA also provides rehabilitation loans and grants to low-to-moderate income elderly homeowners for qualifying rehabilitation work.
- Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) – Annual awards of up to $500,000 are available from the Georgia Department of Community Affairs and may be used for housing improvement activities such as rehabilitation, reconstruction, and some demolition. Only low-to-moderate income households will qualify for assistance under this program. Grants are awarded through a competitive process once every year.
- Community HOME Investment Program (CHIP) – Annual awards of up to $300,000 are available from the Georgia Department of Community Affairs and may be used to rehabilitate existing housing and/or provide down-payment assistance. Like CDBG, only low-to-moderate income households are eligible for CHIP assistance.

There are two forms of assistance represented by the preceding list: homeownership assistance and home repair assistance. Homeownership assistance, such as that provided by USDA and CHIP, should be used as part of a strategy that assists interested renters become owners of safe, decent, sanitary, and affordable homes. In doing so, the community will likely result in a net increase in the availability of quality rental units, and families living in dilapidated houses will have someplace safe to move to, or they could take advantage of the same homeownership assistance programs to move to a new, quality home. Once the family is permanently relocated to a safe, decent, sanitary home, the dilapidated structure can be removed through existing code enforcement processes.

Home repair assistance programs, such as those provided by the CDBG and CHIP programs are competitive in nature and should be used as a part of a strategy that maximizes their impact on a target area. As mentioned earlier, these programs are largely utilized for assistance to homeowners, so the most suitable areas for CDBG and CHIP assistance are those with high concentrations of non-standard housing and a high incidence of owner-occupied units. Table 9 lists all the streets in the study area with nonstandard structures that claim some form of homestead exemption. Based on the high concentration of nonstandard housing structures in areas that demonstrate a high owner-occupancy rate, it is recommended that the top priority target area for a rehabilitation-based assistance program is McDuffie Street. Subsequent target area priorities should be based on the next highest incidences of owner-occupied, nonstandard housing.

The Next Step

The City of Hawkinsville has done well to establish all the appropriate planning and implementation tools. In 2007, it created an Urban Redevelopment Plan in accordance with O.C.G.A. §36-61 and established the Urban Redevelopment Agency for the City of Hawkinsville (HURA) whose mission is to address the problems of substandard and dilapidated housing. It has adopted all the standardized codes relating to building construction and property maintenance and is actively enforcing those codes. In 2009, the City of Hawkinsville was accepted into the Georgia Initiative for Community Housing (GICH) program. A local team comprised of representatives from the City, HURA, local churches, nonprofits, the Board of Education, the Middle Georgia Regional Commission, realtors, bankers, volunteers, residents, and many more meet on a regular basis to identify the community's needs as they relate to housing and develop comprehensive solutions. The next step is to secure the funding necessary, whether through grant funds or other means, to implement a large-scale rehabilitation program.
